No Votes For Women.

STRATHMORE LITERARY SOCIETY SETTLES THE QUESTION.

For a long time past the question whether women should have the parliamentary franchise has exercised the minds of nearly all the world over, and of late years the question has been brought very prominently to the front by the action of the English suffragettes.

Strathmore was, on Thursday night, the scene of an interesting and animated discussion on the subject, which ended in the negative proposition being carried. The occasion was the opening of the new club known as the Strathmore Literary Society, and it was a very auspicious opening indeed, there being over fifty present, mostly the young men of the town, with a sprinkling of ladies.

Dr. Girvan presided, and called on the leader of the affirmative side Mr. Zerkle, to open up the debate.

Mr. Zerkle, who's remarks were couched mostly in humorous vein, with a few touches of pathos, said that it was somewhat embarrassing for him to open up the first debate in the growing, hustling town of Strathmore on a subject which was being discussed all over Canada, the United States, and indeed over the whole world—the subject "Shall women have the right to vote." He noticed down at the foot of the debate the other day that one of the bills announcing the meeting had been altered by having the two first letters of the word stroked out, making the question "Should men have the vote?" The person who altered that was, rather, he knew. How often did they see in the old pictures, an angel depicted as a man, and yet they refused women the right to vote.

They found that most of the teachers in schools now-day were women, and yet they denied those who had the upbringing of their children the right to vote. There was only one matter in which men excelled women, and that was in pounds avoirdupois.

In conclusion, Mr. Zerkle gave several instances in support of the claims of the female sex to a share in the government of the country.
The leader of the opposition side, Mr. Higgins, then called upon by Dr. Girvan, and he proved that he was the star speaker of the evening.
Easy and self possessed in his manner, he introduced a number of good arguments, and all throughput in touches of humour, which were appreciated by the audience.
In commencement he said they had considered in this matter the whole community.

The relationship of the two sexes was neither identical nor antagonistic.
It was complementary, therefore the community as a whole would be best served by each sex doing what it was best suited for.
Women in Britain had the vote for municipal and school elections, and the same should be granted in this country. In government, it did not want old women both sexes—not only men, but the best men. Mr.
Zerkle had claimed votes for women on the grounds of equality, but refrained from stating where they were equal. Taking this question of equality he would instance two things—the average dinner and the making of a dress. The average woman could cook a fairly good dinner, which gave satisfaction to the average man, but say, for instance, that a dinner was being prepared for King Edward or the Lord Mayor of Bassano (laughter), who would cook it? Why man, of course, more man. Take the making again. The making of a lady's dress was a complicated affair. Now if a lady wanted a really good dress, who would she get to make it? Why man again, more man. The man-made dress cost about $10 more on the average than the one made by a female, but it was better made. Some women claimed that if they got the vote they would raise wages for men; but that was nonsense. Wages could not be raised by legislation. There were four States in America where women had votes. At ordinary times about 12 per cent. voted, and at panic times 100 per cent. voted.
In New Zealand they had had the franchise for some little time past and they have enacted some very queer laws.

Mr. Donnelly was the next speaker, and he imported some very melodramatic flourishes into his remarks. "If there is any man here

LOCALS

A meeting of Strathmore and district Freemasons will be held on Monday evening at the R.N.-W.
M.P. Station.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Watt have left for California for the winter.
They will return to Strathmore in spring.

Mr. J. G. Troy has left Strathmore for Calgary.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Harman, and Mr. and Mrs. Alex DeSapote, left this week with their respective families for Vancouver, where they will spend the winter.

The commencement of this week saw threshing in full swing again, but the cold snap of Thursday and Friday caused it to be stopped again.

All subscribers to Strathmore Cemetery Company are requested to call at the office of Mr. F. T.
McElhines during the ensuing week and deposit half the amount subscribed. That is all that is necessary in order to complete final steps in the formation of the Company.

Mrs. Brown gave a successful at home on Thursday, which was attended by a large number of ladies.

The ladies of Strathmore—at least, those of them who were present at last night's meeting—do not seem to want the franchise.
At any rate, they nearly all voted against the proposition that women should have a vote.

Thursday's meeting showed the amount of debating ability that has been lying dormant in Strathmore.
Not only at the meeting, but after it, discussions on the suffrage question took place, and in one or two instances were kept up till a very late hour. The orator of the evening, however, was Mr. Higgins.
He spoke easily and clearly, and some of his sallies at the expense of the other side were particularly happy.

It seems rather peculiar that we should have loggers and Foresters here now, when there is not a respectable-sized tree, much less a wood or a forest, within a radius of fifty miles.

Mr. J. W. Reilly leaves shortly for Hilgard, Oregon. He will be back here again about the beginning of March.

Mr. C. E. Bowman, of Chicago, was here this week, and made a purchase of land about four-and-a-half miles north of Strathmore.
He intends to return in spring and take up occupancy.

That commodious residence known "The Shack" is now deserted for the winter, its inhabitants having taken up quarters in the hotel.

160 cattle were shipped yesterday from Strathmore for Messrs. P.
Burns & Co. Mr. McElhines was in town superintending the shipment.

We have before drawn attention to the filthy conditions of various places in the town, and we regret to state that there has been nothing done to improve them. It is a positive menace to the health of the community that such conditions should be permitted to exist. If an epidemic is to be avoided these places will have to be thoroughly cleaned out and sanitized. It is up to the local Council to take vigorous steps to remedy the evil.

There is another matter which also seems to demand the attention of the Council. Some time ago the C.P.R. made the town the gift of a piece of ground, situated at the back of the town, for a nuisance ground, the only condition being that the Council should fence it.
The ground has not been fenced, and the old nuisance ground in front of the town is still being used.
The smell—or rather effluvia—which proceeds from that place in warm weather is more easily resisted than described.

Freight Shipments Doubled.

RENT INCREASE IN BOW VALLEY TRAFFIC.

The October statement issued by General Freight Agent Halsbury, of Calgary, shows that received freight in the Bow Valley was more than double the received freight of the same month last year. The outgoing also shows a large increase. These increases in the movement of freight point to the prosperity of the district; the incoming freight being largely increased by the arrival of settlers and their effects while the outgoing shows the increase in crop area and crops secured. Prosperity is also shown in the fact that farmers are able to retire their obligations upon the marketing of this year's crop. The present indications promise that next will be the greatest year yet recorded in Alberta. Land values even now show upward tendency as result of the bumper crop just harvested and settlers are planning for a largely increased crop and it is expected that in the district tributary to Calgary there will be an increase of 100 per cent. least, in the number of traction plows in use. Added to the development carried on by the farmers will be that carried on by the Canadian Pacific in the extension of their ditches and the completion of the branch line of railroad that they have had under construction this fall.

Demonstration Farm Manager.

PROF. ELLIOTT APPOINTED

Negotiations, extending over several months, and with a view to securing Prof. W. J. Elliott, of the Department of Dairying, Montana Agricultural College, as Superintendent of the Strathmore Demonstration Farm, have just been satisfactorily concluded by the Canadian Pacific Irrigation Colonization Company. Prof. Elliott has accepted the company's offer and takes charge on January 1. Apart from his duties on the Strathmore Farm he will also sit in an advisory capacity to the superintendent of the various other Demonstration Farms maintained by the company. At Strathmore he will continue to demonstrate the comparative values of irrigated and non-irrigated lands and will, from the proximity of the hotel, be in a position to inspect the dining cars with the "Bow Valley" products. Prof. Elliott is taking charge of this farm again. That it cannot be duplicated in the western states. Some idea as to the value and utility of the farm may be gained from the fact that some $20,000 was spent this year on the barns, dairy equipment, and buildings, poultry ranch and thoroughbred live stock. Prof. Elliott will also continue to develop certain special high-grade cereals, and will endeavor to add to the present unexcelled qualities of Bow Valley barley. A large portion of his time will be devoted to the giving of lectures throughout the district, and his influence will be toward the upbuilding of a conservative and intensive agriculture.

Foresters' Court Opened in Strathmore

The Independent Order of Foresters was instituted in Lloyd's Hall on Wednesday, by Dr. G. H. W. Mide, P.H.C. R., of Calgary. The following officers were elected and installed: Court Deputy, W. S. Fush; Physician, Dr. Gavin; Chief Ranger, A. L. Clemens; Vice Chief Ranger, W. S. McCann; Past Chief Ranger, S. H. Firth; Orator, L. A. Gross; P. Sec., Dr. Green; Treas., F. C. Boller; R. Sec., J. M. C. Wilson; Sen. Wood, T. H. Irvine; Jr. Wood, M. McCann; Sr. B., G. F. Bend; Jr. B., F. W. Rushworth; Capt. J. Courts; John Macdonald. An enthusiastic gathering was present and all the Officers and members of the Court expressed their determination of making the Court Strathmore one of the leading Courts of Alberta. The I.O.F. give sound and safe insurance cover der Dominion Government control at rates sufficiently high to meet their own insurance at a per cent at expense of life.

The Order has an Orphan Home in which they take care of children of deceased Foresters. At the present time they are caring for one hundred and sixty children.
The Order has a reserve fund of $14,000 and should therefore recommend itself to anyone desiring insurance as a safe and sound investment in which to protect a man's family.
We bespeak for Court Strathmore a strong and steady growth and membership as most of the best men of the town are members of this Court.

who denies the right of every woman to a vote, I would ask him to please stand up," and then he paused to see if anyone would comply with the request. He had always taken the side of the weakest. It was only a matter of development in civilization before the franchise would be granted. He made a good point when he referred to the fact that in Calgary and throughout the West women's labor was being sold cheaper than the Orientals.

Mr Bond for the opposite side, said that most men would be prepared to give women the vote if they thought they were fit for it or really wanted it. They lacked mental stability, and could be easily misled. They were too excitable to vote intelligently. Queen Victoria was one of the ablest political women, and she always had the sense to apply for guidance to men.

Mr Brown for the affirmative said that of the four women who had ruled England, three had been good rulers, and that out of about twenty six men who had ruled, only about five were better than the women. As far back as the rock of Numbers they found women asking for the right to hold property, which was granted by Moses.

Mr Worthington, the next opposition speaker, made a good impression. He commenced by addressing his audience as Suffragettes and Anti-suffragettes. The majority of women did not desire to vote he stated, and also adduced a number of other arguments against the granting of the franchise. Mr Zerkle had said that angels were always shown as women. If ever the old painters had seen how the modern suffragettes could control the villages they would have chosen anything rather than women as their models. Woman was far happier in the home than in the political battlefield. They would be far to apt to cherish petty animosities.

Mr Barker had quite a sheet of manuscript when he got on his feet, but unfortunately he got it mixed, and for five minutes was up before he had got properly under way. He said however that the laws of the country were not made for the government of man alone so why therefore, should women not have a say in the making of them.

Mr Girvin called for the next opposition speaker, but Mr Higginbottom said that two of his men were suffering from a bad attack of nerves, and could not get on their feet.

Mr T. H. Irvine was therefore called on for the affirmative. He started off in fine form, but forgot about the five minutes time limit so that the most of his speech was confined to a condemnation of the English Educational Act of 1903 and a eulogy of Mr Gladstone.

Mr Higginbottom then got up to close the negative side, and in a very caustic manner touched off all the affirmative speakers. They had shown no arguments worth while in their defence. Mr Barker had stated that had some slurs prepared for him, but he seemed to have slipped on them. Mr Irvine had given them a series of pen pictures of great men. Mr Brown had instance Norway and Sweden as countries where the women had votes, well they had only had it there for about one year. The better criterion was the one he took of the four States in America, which had had the vote for two years.

Mr Zerkle then closed for the affirmative, but did not produce much fresh argument. His main point being that the negative had shown no reason why women should not have votes.

The vote was then taken, when it was found that the anti-suffragettes were in the majority by five.

A vote of thanks was then passed to Dr. Girvin for his services in the chair.

The debate was a most interesting and instructive one, and showed that there is a vast amount of latent debating ability among the young men of Strathmore. The meeting was a good augury for the success of the newly formed society. There will be another debate held next Thursday in the Church, and it is hoped that there will be as good, or even better, an attendance than the first.

It may be mentioned that the Church will be open every night during the week for reading, games, etc.

Mr C. D. Swan and his bride returned to their Strathmore home this week. Congratulations.

Mr J. Van Eighen's brother arrived in Strathmore, this week. It was a pleasant meeting, for it is a matter of 16 years since they met last.

The Okotoks' Advance has this to say in reply to our statement re the skating rink:—"This year's hockey team is going to lick the teams in other neighbouring towns forty ways. Practice on the new rink should help them to do it.—Strathmore Standard. Better come to Okotoks and try it." Now, Strathmore, take up the challenge.
